

2cTHE DAY BOOKAn Adless Newspaper,
Daily Except Sunday2c*MAN KILLED IN JOY RIDE—TWO OTHERS SERIOUSLY HURT

Spencer Keonek, 30, was instantly killed early this morning at the wind-up of what police believe was a joy-ride. An auto, property of the Emery Motor Livery Co., containing Keonek, a girl who gave the name of Mrs. Elsie Shields, 16, 722 W. 26th, and the chauffeur, Wm. Hannett, 28, 129 E. 45th, crashed into an iron pole at 68d st. and 49th av.

The Shields girl's skull was fractured. She will recover. She is at the County hospital. Hannett was seriously injured.

The dead man's name was first given as John Ormsted, 5200 Blackstone av.

Police called at that address. Geo. Ormsted lives there. He is connected with A. B. Leach, bankers and brokers. He identified the man as Keonek, an employe of his.

The auto party had been to Burnside and had stopped at Argo at a restaurant. Here Keonek met two friends. They are being held by the police for questioning. Gave the names James Mulpenny and Peter Zabos.

Mrs. Shields was married a month ago at Crown Point to Jas. Shields, a street car conductor, with whom she eloped, it is said, against wishes of her parents.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Jack Lait, Chicago Herald writer, will speak at Hobo College, 917 Washington blvd., tonight on "O. Henry, His Earl Life and Struggles."

Dr. C. Seastrand will lecture on "Foods and Health" at Workers' Institute, 920 S. Ashland av., 8 p. m., tonight.

SOLID COMFORT

"Nothing to do 'till tomorrow,"

My work was all finished I think.
And nary a thought that came to my mind

Had any connectable link.
Just loafin' at comfort and ease,
With all of my worry gone.

So the old fireplace and the pipe in my face,

And me and the lamp smoked on.

SOLID IVORY

Just heaps to do before morning.

I had slacked through the day somehow.

But as long as I got away with it then,

Why should I worry now?
Just killin' my valuable time.

Perhaps with my brain in pawn.
And the old fireplace and the pipe in my face,

And me and the lamp smoked on.

—H. M. C.

Walter Trimmer, engineer, killed when runaway engine crashed into Chicago & Alton locomotive.

San Antonio, Texas.—The Third Illinois infantry stationed at Camp Wilson, will entrain for Fort Sheridan, Ill., Saturday.

NEW YORK STOCKS.—Bethlehem fluctuated, with upward tendency. General trading even.

WEATHER FORECAST

Fair tonight and Thursday; colder tonight; lowest temperature about 8 degrees; moderate north-west winds. Temperature Tuesday: High, 26; low, 24.